Dear Readers, Authors, and Reviewers,

Warm Greetings!

It is with immense pleasure and a sense of great purpose that I address you as we unveil Shodh Sari, Volume 4, Issue 3, covering the period of July to September 2025. This edition holds a special significance as we turn our focus to a theme that is both timely and transformative: the role of youth in shaping our future.

In an era of unprecedented global challenges, the energy, innovation, and passion of young people are more crucial than ever. This issue of Shodh Sari is a dedicated exploration of youth empowerment and the critical skills necessary for them to become leaders, innovators, and active agents of change. The articles within these pages highlight the vital connection between education, skill development, and the ability of our youth to navigate and influence the world around them.

The scholarly works in this volume delve into a range of topics, from fostering entrepreneurial mindsets to developing digital literacy and promoting civic engagement. They underscore the idea that true empowerment is not just about giving young people a voice, but about equipping them with the tools and confidence to act on their ideas.

My deepest gratitude goes out to our brilliant authors whose research and insights form the very core of this issue. Your contributions have not only enriched our understanding but have also provided valuable guidance for educators, policymakers, and mentors committed to youth development.

I also want to extend my sincere appreciation to our dedicated editorial team. Your meticulous efforts and unwavering commitment to quality are the bedrock upon which Shodh Sari's reputation stands.

I hope you find this latest issue both insightful and inspiring. May it spark new ideas and encourage you to engage with the incredible potential of our youth.
